

NEWS TALK 650
CKOM

LISTEN LIVE

gz thegreenzone

News Shows Podcasts Contests Events Insider Contact us Weather & Traffic

Saskatoon News

POWERED BY TCU PLACE SASKATOON'S ARTS & CONVENTION CENTRE

Saskatoon News

Photos: Nexus Building expected to turn heads

A project that took more than 4 years is finally near completion

Reported by Megan Lacelle

First Posted: Jul 2, 2014 4:22pm

Walking into 450 Second Ave. N., the first thing one might notice is the huge hand-made chandelier hanging in the entryway, hundreds of unique glass tubes and dance light across the white polished floors.

This is the entrance to the Nexus building, a project that took more than four years to complete, according to Ken Achs, president and CEO of Mid-West Group. Mid-West Group shares the building with Meridian Development.

"It took two weeks just to put that chandelier together," Achs said.

The Nexus turns heads with its black polished outside and custom features.

The details of the building are a source of pride to Achs. He points out the one-of-a-kind Chihuly light fixtures, the leather doors and the art pieces that hang against blue light in the offices.

Achs said the building isn't 100 per cent completed yet, but they hope to be done in August.

mlacelle@rawlco.com

Follow on Twitter: @lacelle_megan

Business/Labour Saskatchewan is growing General Consumer Saskatoon

Give feedback on this story

